

CAPACITY SCENARIOS

Dr. Friday's capacity evaluations can answer questions such as:

- An aging family member wants to change a will. Does the family member have the capacity to do so?
- Family members disagree on whether an older relative needs a guardian to be safe, and the elder does not think so. Who is correct?
- Is someone being taken advantage of financially, or can he/she still make reasonable decisions about finances?
- A patient was given a temporary guardian during a medical emergency, but now states that he can manage his life himself. Does this person have capacity to do so?

Amy Friday, Ph.D.

Dr. Friday is a licensed psychologist in Oregon and Washington. Her specialty is in clinical geropsychology (aging issues and brain function). She received her Ph.D. in clinical psychology from Arizona State University with a focus on health and geropsychology and completed postdoctoral training in geropsychology and geriatric neuropsychology through Harvard Medical School and the Boston VA Medical System. In 2004 she founded the OPAL Institute to collaborate with medical and legal professionals on capacity issues and best practices when assisting elders.

Capacity Evaluation Services

Prevention and protection are key factors in making your decisions stand.

Amy Friday, Ph.D.

Capacity Consultant and Expert Witness

Risk is real. Problems occur all too often when it comes to our final wishes. People make thoughtful decisions about the future of their assets and later fall prey to family controversy. Those final wishes, so carefully set down, may be destroyed due to a legal challenge.

Don't let this happen to you.
